COMMITTEE TO DEVISE POSTAL BANK CHANGES

Present System to Continue Until Postmaster General Passes Upon Report.

Following the transfer of the postal savings system to the office of the third assistant postmaster general, the Postmaster General today designated Clarence B. Hurrey, chief clerk of the office of the third assistant postmaster general; Elmont B. Hazard, law clerk in the office of the assistant attorney general for the Post Office Department, and Charles E. Matthews, chief of the division of accounts of the postal savings system, a committee to recommend such amendments and changes in the instructions. forms and blanks heretofore isued and adopted for ue in the potal savings system, and to make such other recommendations as appear to be necessary or desirable to carry into effect the Postmaster General's order of yesterday.

Third Assistant Postmaster General Dockery said today he had issued an order directing the continuance of the business in the system the same as heretofore for the present. No change in personnel or otherwise would be made, he said, until after the report of the committee had been submitted to and passed upon by-the Postmaster

There was another point to be considered, he said, in the fact that while in the past the appropriation for the postal savings system had been made in bulk, including that for the pay of its employes, under the new law which goes into effect July 1 each employe would fall within the regular clerical classification of the department.

Transfer Order Signed.

Upon the recommendation of Third Assistant Postmaster General Dockery, the Postmaster General signed the order transferring the postal savings system to the jurisdiction of the former, effective May 1. Since its creation January 1, 1911, the departmental office having control of its functions has been operated as an independent bureau, with a director, an assistant director, four supervisory officers and 188 employes. That office now becomes the division of postal savings. The Postmaster General was actuated in making the transfer by the fact that all the financial operations of the department are now under control of the third assistant postmaster general, amounting approximately to $1,000,000,000 a year.

Postal System in 13,000 Offices.

The postal savings system is in operaon deposit in its depositories $35,000,000, and $2,500,000 in United States bonds, Last year the appropriation for conducting the system amounted to $500,000. This year $400,000, with the unexpended balance from last year, has been appropriated for it. In addition an appropriation of $229,980 for clerk hire and $105,500 for supplies and miscellaneous has been made for conducting its opera-

"Under the new arrangements," said Mr. Burleson in a statement last night, 'the operation of the system in conunction with the other financial divisions of the department will not only avoid the duplication of similar work and make possible substantial economies in adminstration, but will open the way for im-

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets

Everything Double Except the Price.

Thin double boning gives twice the strength and greater flexibility than a single boning of equal weight.

Double interlining prevents the boning punching through. It strengthens and lengthens the life of the corset. Double side steels give extra support to the woman who breaks her corsets, and are twice as easy as the ordinary single Some WARNER models have the patented "double skirt"—the ideal long corset for summer wear-soft and light above the waist, but below the waist an extra layer of strong batists prevents the lightest corset from ripping. You can wear the longest skirt, and lace it ever so tightly, and it is comfortable STAND-ING, SITTING OR WALKING.
